CLP Power Extends Free Charging to Encourage Green Motoring

As part of its commitment to expand electric vehicle (EV) charging services across its power supply network to encourage green motoring, CLP Power Hong Kong Limited (CLP Power) announced today (26 November) that it will extend free charging for electric vehicles at its 40 charging stations until the end of 2016 to encourage more people to switch to green motoring.

As well as continuing to offer free charging, CLP Power has also responded to the development of the EV market and drivers' demands by adding another multi-standard quick charger at Sheung Tak Estate in Tseung Kwan O. The new addition follows the introduction by CLP Power of the first multi-standard quick charger in Hong Kong in June.

Suitable for most EVs in Hong Kong, the chargers support multi-standard quick charging including the Japanese quick charging standard (CHAdeMO) and two European quick charging standards (CCS and IEC Type 2 AC 3 Phase). The chargers enable the majority of compatible EVs to be charged to up to 80% within 30 minutes, providing enough power for a journey of approximately 100 km.

In the "Hong Kong Climate Change Report 2015" recently launched by the Environment Bureau, it noted that carbon emissions from transportation sources account for approximately 17% of total greenhouse gases (GHG) emissions. The Government will mitigate GHG emissions by promoting private EVs and expanding charging facilities.

In support of the Government's initiative in promoting the use of EVs, CLP Power plans to install nine additional multi-standard quick chargers in districts across the city by the end of 2016. By then, CLP Power's EV quick charging stations will be available at intervals averaging 10 km throughout Kowloon and the New Territories. In addition, some of the existing chargers will be gradually upgraded to provide added convenience for drivers.

Since 2009, CLP Power has pioneered the introduction of charging stations across its power supply network. Drivers can now charge their EVs at CLP Power's 147 charging points covering every major district in Kowloon, the New Territories and Lantau Island. Customers can download a CLP Power smartphone app to locate the nearest EV charging station. A detailed map and suggested route are provided.
