CLP We Love Dance Roadshow Rolls through Hong Kong to Drum Up Support for Exercise and Energy Saving

A CLP We Love Dance mobile truck will tour Hong Kong in October and November to invite members of the public to join a community-wide effort to dance, save energy, and help people in need. The mobile truck features a dance mat game developed by CLP engineers for visitors to compete with relatives and friends and turn kinetic energy into electricity, demonstrating the importance of saving energy. It also has a 3D photo corner where people can make memories and share energy-saving pledges and tips. Flash mob dances will be performed at selected locations along the mobile truck's route.

The mobile truck will travel through the 14 districts of CLP's supply area, encouraging members of the public to embrace energy saving and low-carbon lifestyles through the interactive dancing game:

The mobile truck is part of the CLP We Love Dance programme which encourages people across the city to dance, save energy, and help the underprivileged. For every dance completed by participants, CLP Power will donate five units of electricity in subsidies up to a total value of HK$2 million to CLP Power Connect beneficiaries, including elderly people, disabled people, low-income families, and tenants of subdivided units. The more people dance, the more people in need will benefit.
